Mr. Smith is a history teacher in Rapid City, South Dakota. South Dakota is a state in the Midwest. Tomorrow, he and his class are going on a trip. They are going to the Black Hills, the mountains of South Dakota. They are going to see the faces of four American Presidents: George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, and Theodore Roosevelt. They are not going to see the real Presidents, and they are not going to see pictures or photographs of the Presidents, either. They are going to see the Presidents' faces in the mountains.

An artist named Gutzon Borglum *carved the stone faces. They are 60 *feet high and are a part of Mount Rushmore, a mountain in the Black Hills. The faces are so big that you can see them 60 *miles away. Mr. Smith's students are going to take pictures and write stories about their visit. If you ever travel across the country, make sure you visit this famous *monument.

[注] *carved : 彫(ほ)った *feet : footの複数形、1 foot 30.48センチ
*miles : 1 mile 約1609メートル *monument : 記念碑
